Presidential Voting In Nation Has Dropped Off Consistently

By Pete Olwyler

The chart at left is good news if you don't like representative democracy.

A democracy remains a democracy when its members accept the responsibility of expressing themselves by voting.

A glance at the chart shows that fewer and fewer Americans have shared responsibility for their country since 1940 — meaning that fewer bother with voting.

This is true both per cent-wise and in actual numbers.

Back in 1920 things looked pretty good. That was the year women got the vote. For the next 20 years there was a bigger and bigger turnout of voters at each election. The figures ran 25 . . . 25 . . . 31 . . . 32 . . . 36 . . . and 38 per cent of the population.

It looked like a slow but steady crawl toward the higher brackets of responsible citizenship.

The year 1940 was the peak. After that, something went out of joint.

In 1940 America's population was 132.2 million, of which about 83.4 million were eligible to vote. When November rolled around, 61 per cent of the eligibles went to the polls. Votes actually cast numbered 50.5 million, or an all-time high of 38 per cent of the population.

In 1944 there was a war on. The population had jumped to 140 million of which about 88.1 were eligible to vote. In November, however, votes numbered about 48 million, representing only 35 per cent of the eligibles and 34 per cent of the population.

Pete Olwyler

"Experts" were inclined to blame this on war conditions, perhaps with some justice. However in 1948 the GI's were home again, the country was booming, the Korean war hadn't yet started—and voting dropped even lower.

This time the population had climbed to 146.6 million and some 92.2 million could have voted if they'd been so inclined. When the count was in, it turned out that only 46.1 million had gone to the polls—just half of those eligible and only 31 per cent of the population.

It meant the country got 144 million people bigger in eight years—and cast 4.4 million fewer votes.

What's in the cards for November this year?

No one will know, of course, until after the votes are counted. But here are some of the pre-election statistics: population 155 million. Eligible to vote, upwards of 97.5 million.

Per cent of population voting . . . ? The answer depends on individual Americans. If the national trend toward ignoring the key-stone of the democratic process is unchecked the per cent will drop to perhaps 28, or one of the lowest votes cast in the last quarter century.

On the other hand, we may wake up to what's happening and reverse the trend.

Trends can be reversed, history shows. Business booms, slumps, booms again. Popular songs get slow, fast and slow again.

Fashion designers manage to reverse trends every year. As a result, women by the millions hurry out to spend hours shopping for new clothes.

Some one may yet hit on a way to make voting as important as skirt lengths.

Contained Substantial Cash, Jewels

Burglars stole a 400-pound safe containing cash and jewelry early yesterday from an office at Werry's Sunnybrook Resort, Echoe Lake.

It was reported that the loss ran to five figures.

Pfc. Alex G. Kearn of the Stroudsburg station, investigating the theft, did not disclose the precise amount of money in the safe, and said the value of the jewelry had not yet been determined.

He said only that the loss represented a "considerable sum of money."

The burglary took place between midnight Saturday and 8 a.m. yesterday, Kearn said. The safe was black in color, measured about two feet square and three feet high. It was on metal casters.

The office is on the west side of the building. A door opens from the office onto a porch. A driveway runs alongside the porch, separating it from some of the guest quarters.

A check of the guests across the driveway from the office turned up none who had heard or seen anything suspicious during the night, Kearn said.

The guests immediately across from the office door said they went to bed about midnight and heard nothing, police said.

Entrance was gained through the porch door, Kearn said.

Evidently the safe was carried from the office and presumably loaded into a motor vehicle, then carted off to be opened at leisure. Because of the weight of the safe, Kearn said it was likely that a minimum of three men were involved.

Nothing else in the office was touched, police said.

Kearn said that the cash inside the safe was enclosed in a number of plain white envelopes, and in a green money bag with a zipper top.

A search of the grounds and surrounding area yesterday afternoon disclosed no evidence of the safe.

Six Unhurt In Crash

Indianapolis, Pa. (AP) — Six men including Lt. Gen. Leon W. Johnson and his staff, escaped serious injury yesterday when their C-47 transport plane crashed and burned while attempting to land.

Johnson, commanding general of the Continental Air Command, was en route to the military reservation here to attend Governor's Day ceremonies of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Johnson, who was flying as co-pilot, was able to escape from the door of the plane before it caught fire and burned after hitting an Army barracks. No one in the barracks was injured.

Less than an hour later, the calm and dapper former commander of the Third Air Force in England was participating in the National Guard ceremonies with Gov. John S. Fine.

Thousands of horrified spectators, gathered for the review, watched the plane hit telephone wires and a tree before crashing.

The Army listed those aboard in addition to Johnson as:

Maj. Gen. George C. Finch, deputy for National Guard affairs for CAC and a former Georgia attorney; Brig. Gen. Robert L. Copey, special assistant to chief of staff for reserve affairs and a former New Jersey National Guard official; Lt. Col. Edward Mikolowski, administrative assistant to Johnson and the plane's navigator; Maj. James F. Stark, the pilot; and Johnson's aide, and A-1C Robert C. Main, the crew chief.

All are stationed at Mitchell Field, Long Island, N.Y., except Copey who is assigned to the Pentagon in Washington.

Maine was treated for minor cuts at the base hospital.

The plane was attempting to land at the airstrip on Muir Field, adjacent to the base parade grounds.

The spokesman said the plane was making its second approach and didn't pick up enough speed.

Gen. Copey grabbed a foam fire extinguisher and joined base firemen in fighting the blaze. The plane was completely destroyed.

Political Road Show Moves This Week; Both Candidates Will Appear Before Legion

By The Associated Press

This is the week when the 1952 political show really goes on the road. From now to Nov. 4 it will be mainly a series of one-night—or one hour—stands as the presidential nominees woo the voters in person.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican, got a head start on his Democratic rival, Gov. Adlai Stevenson. He flew from his Denver headquarters yesterday to address the American Legion convention in New York City today.

Stevenson, following up Wednesday before the Legionnaires, stuck to his Springfield, Ill., headquarters working on speeches. He took time out from that chore to make clear that he was fully aware of the possible effect on electoral votes of his decision Saturday against complete state control of the oil riches beyond the low tide line.

Both candidates are embarking on busy schedules beginning with the Legion appearances, which in both cases are billed as non-political.

Eisenhower aides said that for the rest of the week he will spend a good deal of time in New York conferences with GOP leaders who have been unable to get to Denver. Their list included House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts and Senate GOP Leader Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

After the New York huddles he takes off Sept. 2 on a whirlwind air tour of the South. He will swing back to Philadelphia Sept. 5 for the nationally broadcast and televised speech that the Republican National Committee rates as the kickoff for his formal campaign.

Just before the general's take-off for New York, his headquarters announced the itinerary for his southern "prop-stop" tour, which already had been reported in outline form.

The lineup of cities is Atlanta, Ga., Jacksonville, Miami and Tampa, Fla., Birmingham, Ala., and Little Rock, Ark.

The earlier tentative plan had been to take in more cities—perhaps 10 or more—and include Texas in the swing. Aides cut down the route, however, in the belief he could not cover so much ground in the time available.

Even as curtailed, the aerial campaign will be an unprecedented Dixie effort for a Republican presidential candidate. Aides said the drive is being made in the belief they have a fighting chance to crack the Democratic solid south for the first time since 1928.

Strange Force Is Reported By Newsmen

Eisenhower's flight to New York moves his operating headquarters temporarily there. At the same time a small staff under Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, his political chief of staff, will set up shop in Washington to work closely with the Republican National Committee. Denver headquarters, still to be maintained, is being cut down.

Stevenson's follow-up on the off-shore oil subject consisted of a statement saying that Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, to whom the nominee's stand was announced, knew Stevenson had to decide without regard to any cost in votes.

The statement amounted to a response to Shivers' announcement in Texas, after his return from a visit to Stevenson in Springfield, that he could not personally support Stevenson on account of the oil lands decision.

Shivers had said that while he could not personally back Stevenson he would be guided by "what-ever the Democrats of Texas want me to do."

After the talk with the Texas governor, Stevenson said he supported President Truman's veto of a bill that would have given the states full control of the offshore lands. But he added that the "legislative stalemate" over the matter must be broken and that he favored some "equitable arrangement" to serve the best interests of both the coastal states and the federal government.

Today Stevenson said Shivers was naturally disappointed by his stand but had expressed himself "with what I consider to be both fairness and restraint."

"He fully recognized that I should reach my conclusions honestly and in the exercise of my best judgment regardless of the possible effect on electoral votes," Stevenson said.

Stevenson also said in a statement he had made no commitments whatever on future cabinet appointments if he is elected.

Furthermore, he said, no authorized associate has made commitments "to anybody on any position whatever."

There had been reports that Stevenson associates at one time had approached Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee about an appointment as attorney general.

Americans Imitate Arabs On North African Bases

Washington (AP) — Some American plumbers and Arab workers provided investigating senators yesterday with broad targets for charges of loafing and waste on construction of U. S. air bases in North Africa.

The highly critical report carried this account of a surprise night check on a staging area:

"The place was lit up like a Christmas tree but no one seemed to be doing any work. One of the inspection party lifted a section of canvas covering some newly received equipment and flushed out 28 Arab workmen who had been sleeping under it."

Another inspector ran into about the same experience with 46 American plumbers, except he found all of them in workers' quarters near one of the air base projects.

The committee listed among its conclusions:

"Large-scale loafing, drunkenness, and failure to attend to duty was rampant at least throughout the initial stages of construction. This was undoubtedly caused to some extent by poor planning, confusion, and indecision on the part of those charged with the administration of the project."

Wide-spread theft and pilfering of tools, supplies and equipment on the North African construction jobs also were disclosed.

Holowach added he also saw a "reddish-white light" in a little valley some distance from his observation point on a slight rise along Route 408 in Rockdale Township.

He said he couldn't pinpoint the sources of the lights but ruled out, after careful observation, that they were caused by auto headlights, fireflies, passing planes or other such objects.

Holowach said he watched the lights for about an hour and a half, taking notes all the while. He went back to the spot later today but could find no trace of the ground light or what it was that caused the "strange force," he said.

The Herald, a morning paper, is to carry a headline today reading: "Editor Sees 'saucer' in sky; Fells Strange Force."

Holowach said he first noticed the light in the eastern sky about 2 a.m. EST while driving along the road. He stopped his car and switched off the headlights.

"(The light) flickered on and off and skated around the horizon."

Then, Holowach said, he became aware of the ground light, and felt the car vibrating. To make sure his imagination wasn't playing tricks, Holowach said, he lined up the auto's radio antenna with the top of a tree and definitely noted the "car was moving." As Holowach puts it:

"I looked at the light in the valley. It stared at me. It seemed some force was pulling at me through the open window. It felt like a giant magnet was drawing my flesh."

Holowach declared there was no wind and no sound.

Here's Where Registrars Will Serve

Special voting registrars will sit from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at Mount Pocono and Tannersville school houses.

Tuesday night at Mount Pocono school house the Young Republican Club will hold its August meeting in the form of a registration drive starting at 6:45 p.m. Club members have been ringing doorbells in the area for weeks, have persuaded 12 persons to register (seven of them Democrats) and have reported 37 changes of address.

Legion Opens Convention In New York

New York (AP) — The 40 and 8 Society, the American Legion's fun-making organization, kicked off the Legion's 34th convention yesterday as 10,000 merry makers paraded before a police-estimated crowd of 600,000.

Thronged jammed against police barriers on Fifth Avenue as Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, wearing his Legionnaire's cap, marched at the head with other officials.

It was the first time the 40 and 8 ever marched on a Sunday or on Fifth Avenue, according to Parade Chairman Lester B. Harns.

This year the 40 and 8 promised to keep things "dignified" and police approved the Fifth Avenue route after churches along the way had given their permission.

But there was plenty of horseplay, nevertheless.

One of the Legionnaires, wearing women's clothes, leaped to the reviewing stand after the mayor arrived there and tried to kiss him.

Impellitteri left his seat to avoid the man, who said he was Claude Buzick, of Mankato, Minn.

Earlier, Buzick pranced about kissing policemen.

Between 55 and 60 gasoline-driven replicas of old-style French box cars and locomotives moved down the avenue.

The society was named after the rated capacity of the French World War One box cars—40 men and 8 horses—so familiar to the American troops in 1917-18.

There was a supposed ban on small cannons, water pistols and electric canes—but the ban was broken so far as cannons were concerned.

Their explosions, plus the noise of firecrackers and backfiring engines, punctuated the music of more than 100 bands in the parade. But parade units kept a respectful silence during the first 90 minutes of the march as they passed St. Patrick's Cathedral where a service was being held.

Meanwhile, with the serious state of world affairs the keynote of the convention, Legion committees worked today at resolutions which will be referred to the convention floor for action.

The 40 and 8 parade, which lasted more than two hours, was just a warm-up for the Legion's big parade on Tuesday.

More than 100,000 visitors are expected for the convention activities, which end Thursday.

Sawyer Says Prices Will Not Increase

Washington, (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Sawyer reported yesterday that prices of consumer goods probably will not rise much the rest of this year despite the increased cost of steel.

The reason: Manufacturers and retailers in general fear the public simply will not buy higher priced products. Many businessmen indicated they will absorb all or part of the metal cost increase rather than try to pass the boost along to the customer.

The word "consumer resistance" popped up like a red warning signal in sentence after sentence of the secretary's report and a national survey upon which Sawyer based his conclusions.

"Major price changes are not indicated for the balance of this year," Sawyer said in summing up the results.

But Sawyer indicated there may be a substantial long term rise in general consumer prices, depending, he said, largely on whether a general round of wage and price boosts is now beginning or ending.

He did not guess at a direct answer on that, but did comment that the nation has been caught in an inflationary spiral for years and it would be a foolish man who would predict that we have reached the end of it.

The Commerce Department's price survey indicated differences in regional outlooks, plus considerable variation in price prospects from product to product, depending upon the amount of steel used.

Sawyer announced 10 days ago he was having his department examine the probable effects of the 36-day strike in the steel industry and of the $5.20 per ton steel price increase that went along with the settlement.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall, who had advocated a smaller steel price increase, said after the steel settlement that it would cost the average American family $100 a year.

With the survey results in hand, Sawyer said the effects of the steel settlement have been "negligible" so far and "it is clear that general refusal on the part of the consumer to pay high prices would make price increases impossible to maintain."

An estimate that the steel cost increase will come out to only 50 or 60 cents on a refrigerator and not more than $10 on an automobile was cited as one argument against the likelihood of big price boosts.

Diplomatic Officials Say Russia's Terms For Big Four Meeting Unacceptable

By John M. Hightower

Washington (AP) — Diplomatic officials said yesterday Russia's terms for a Big Four meeting on German unity and peace are unacceptable and undoubtedly will be rejected by the Western Powers.

The United States, Britain and France will begin consultation in a few days on the Soviet proposition, which was set forth in a note to the three powers yesterday.

Diplomats here said the Western Powers would not fall into the propaganda battle in which the Russians would seek to wreck the Western defense drive.

The Soviet note called for a meeting of representatives of the four governments by October for the purpose of considering (1) a German peace treaty, (2) the formation of a government over all Germany, (3) elections throughout Germany, and (4) the date for withdrawal of occupation forces.

The Russians said in effect that after the peace treaty and an all-German government were discussed they would be glad to consider a Western proposal for setting up a commission to determine whether conditions exist in Germany for free elections.

Agreement by the Soviets to such a commission would seem to commit them to dismantle the Iron Curtain between East Germany and the West. Such agreement has therefore been considered highly improbable—except in the circumstance, unlikely at this time, that Russia is ready to make some tremendous concessions and adjustments in its world relationships.

From the Western viewpoint, what the Kremlin is now trying to accomplish is the creation of a sounding board for a propaganda attack on the Western plan to reform West Germany in association with the North Atlantic defense system. Treaties to bring that about still have to be ratified at Bonn and Paris.

The aim of the West in countering the Soviet strategy has been first to demonstrate whether or not Russia is sincere and second to prevent the Soviets from getting agreement on a four power meeting for propaganda purposes. But they want to do so without making it appear that the West is against German unity or against negotiations with Moscow.

Strickler To Stay In Service Year

Goeppingen, Germany, (AP) — Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, commander of the 28th Infantry Division and former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, will remain on active duty at least one more year.

Strickler, who gave up his state office when he was recalled to active military service in August, 1950, said yesterday he had received his active duty orders from the Army Department.

Strickler returned to active service after the outbreak of the Korean War, when the 28th Division, the Pennsylvania National Guard, was federalized. He brought the Keystone Division to Germany last year in a buildup of American forces on the Iron Curtain front. About 4,000 troops, the last Pennsylvania guardsmen in the outfit, were returned to the United States this year for release.

Vice Witness In Close Shave

New York (AP) — Robert Merritt, a vagrant who surprised a Virginia jailer by shaving off his own hair and eyebrows, yesterday became the newest material witness in New York City's high-priced prostitution probe.

But what the still-shorn Merritt's connection was with the case authorities did not say immediately.

After being escorted here from Richmond Saturday night, Merritt was questioned for 17½ hours and was held in $25,000 bail as a material witness today at the request of Assistant District Attorney Anthony J. Liebler.

Liebler had no comment on whether Merritt was cooperating with authorities.

Senator Martin Addresses 5,000 At Blue Valley Farm Show

Flays Moral Decay; Farm Plan Moves

Bangor. In an address before 5,000 persons at the closing night festivities of the seventh annual Blue Valley Farm Show here Saturday, U.S. Sen. Edward Martin outlined ten points which he contends are paramount threats to the United States and the world.

Introduced by Ray Young, program chairman of the Bangor Exchange Club's affair, Martin defined Communism as "Godless philosophy in our own midst" and charged the Iron Curtain with seeking to destroy all human freedom in its purge.

He also flayed the Brannan farm plan as a "fantastic scheme which would place all agriculture in a government strait-jacket."

Martin further called for a strong foreign policy to avert the threat of another global conflict; attacked government spending as extravagant; held that inflation destroys dollar value and charged corruption and moral decay as being detrimental to the factors which would undermine the federal government.

Other speakers at the show were Clarence Brown, farm show president; Markley Reichard, vice president and Jay Sleep, Exchange Club head.

It was estimated that 25,000 persons attended the four-day program at the show grounds between here and Pen Argyl. Over $2,000 in prizes was presented to youthful victors of the home economics, manual arts and vocational agriculture exhibits which were judged the opening day.

Winner of the third annual Miss State Belt Bess title, a cow selected by spectators, was "Jane Jennings Dean Rag Apple," a registered Holstein owned by Earle Jennings of the Bangor chapter, Future Farmers of America.

The win gave young Jennings a gallon of ice cream donated by State Belt Dairy and 10 voters who selected Miss State Belt Bess, each a similar award.

Spectator winners were Mrs. Wm. Jones, Pen Argyl; Charles Kline, Stroudsburg; George Edman, Pen Argyl; Jane Kromer, Bangor; Jane Mack, Pen Argyl; RD 1; Mrs. George Sullivan, Bangor; RD1; Alice Featherman, Ronald Henderson and Judy Evans, all of Bangor; and Barry Jones, Wind Gap.

Winners of the Exchange Club awards were Nancy Kern, Bud Weidlich, Joseph Shoup, N. A. Lagg and F. W. Baker, all of Bangor; and Jacob Dietrich, Pen Argyl.

A calf offered by the Bangor chapter, FFA, was won by F. Kaufman, RD1, Bangor; turkey, by Steven Nemeth, RD1, Bangor; and chicken, Lucille Ott, Mt. Bethel.

Other awards included a plastic awning to Howard Chappell, RD1, Pen Argyl; table radio to Andrew Schlavone, Bangor; and basket of groceries to George Roberts.

Greene-Dreher Fair Has $500 Increase Over 1951 Event

Bad Weather First Day Is No Deterrent

Newfoundland — Despite adverse weather conditions which dropped entries below the total for last year, the Greene-Dreher fair grossed approximately $500 more than its 1951 counterpart.

As residents of the area will remember, the fair last year was rained out on its closing night—Thursday—before much real interest in the three-day celebration had been generated.

This year the weatherman gave fair planners a faint smile and sent the rain down on opening night—Thursday—before much real interest in the three-day celebration had been generated.

Entries for the 1952 version of the annual fair dropped 210 below that of the preceding year, however. There were 1573 for this year; 1783 for the year 1951.

In matters of cash prizes awarded the fair was also below its former level.

Officials gave out a total of $884.70 in prizes to contestants in the fair last week. Total for 1951 was $899.25.

The $884.70 total was divided up this way:

Livestock—27 entries, $71.50 in prizes; farm crops—306 entries, $151.50 prizes; vocational farm crops—78 entries, $47.75; poultry—36 entries, $55.25; vocational poultry—36 entries, $63.20; junior department—50 entries, $14.75; home economics—104 entries, $59.25; needlecraft—137 entries, $72.75; baked goods—226 entries, $138.50; horticulture—233 entries, $58.25; canned goods—137 entries, $57 in prizes; jellies, preserves, jams etc.—203 entries, $95.00 in prizes.

Fair officials, looking back over the three days during which residents of Greene, Dreher, Sterling and Lehigh townships in Pike, and Wayne counties made the trip from their homes to visit an affair which has become one of north-eastern Pennsylvania's most famous during the past 36 years, were inclined to call this year's edition a financial success, at least.

With an estimated gross of $3,000 the fair would be $500 more successful than the 1951 celebration. On the other hand, the tentative gross would be nearly $1,000 less than receipts for what fair officials describe as a "normal" year.

1951 was considered a "poor crop year" in the Greene-Dreher area and entries, consequently, slackened off considerably. So did the gross receipts.

An annual dinner for old folks over 80 and those couples in the area who were celebrating their "golden wedding" anniversaries was the highlight of the closing day session on Saturday.

Duff Charges Democrats Hurt Youths

Harrisburg, (AP)—Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.) told delegates to the convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Young Republicans that "the Democrats pulled the rug out from under the youth of America."

"They did this," Duff declared, by creating a "prosperity based on war contracts and blood."

Duff spoke Saturday before 500 delegates who later chose Enoch H. Thomas, 33, Wilkes-Barre, president.

Bulbar Polio Claims Life Of Pottsville Youth After Leaving Camp Here For Home

Bulbar polio claimed the life Friday of Kenneth F. Schoeneman, 7, Pottsville, who was sent home ill from Camp Miller, Shawnee-on-Delaware about 14 hours earlier.

A "polio" observation quarantine imposed on the camp after the death of an Allentown camper, 13, two weeks earlier, was lifted at noon Thursday, according to Walter May, health officer.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Schoeneman Sr., was sent home at 3:15 p.m. E.S.T., Thursday, May was told by camp authorities.

According to Mrs. Schoeneman, the boy and his brother, Franklin Dale, 11, who had also been at the camp, arrived home with their grandmother about 7 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Schoeneman said a medical report had been sent along with Kenneth from the camp with instructions to turn it over to the family physician.

Mrs. Schoeneman called the family physician, Dr. Leslie Schwalm, who ordered Kenneth to Pottsville hospital immediately.

The boy's mother said her son left for the hospital about 8 p.m. He died at 4:30 a.m. Friday, she said, in a respirator.

The diagnosis of bulbar polio was issued by Dr. Schwalm and Dr. Francis M. Dougherty, both of Pottsville.

Mrs. Schoeneman said the medical report from the camp indicated her son had been given a shot of penicillin on Wednesday and on Thursday.

She said the camp authorities had telephoned with a report of Kenneth's illness about noon Thursday.

Health Officer May said the first he learned of the illness of the Schoeneman boy was when the camp telephoned him Friday about 2 p.m.

May said that after the observation quarantine lifted at noon Thursday, some of the campers went home the same night, and that others had gone home Friday.

After having received notice from the camp, May reported to Harrisburg, received instructions to get the names and addresses of all campers so that health officers in the respective districts could be notified that the children had been "polio contacts," as May described it.

May said he then went to the camp, arriving between 4 and 5 p.m.

He was given a paper from the camp director, May said, which stated that Dr. Philip F. Ehrig, East Stroudsburg, examined the boy at noon Thursday; that the boy was admitted to the camp infirmary at 7:30 a.m.; that the boy was diagnosed as having a "throat infection."

May said that after leaving the camp, he left the paper at the office of Dr. R. Frederick Jones, county medical director.

Dr. Jones said no one at the camp at any time notified him of the boy's illness.

May said no other cases of polio had been reported since that of the Schoeneman boy's.

All of the 380 boys at the camp had left the premises by Saturday night, May said.

Those in Pennsylvania homes will be placed under 14-day observation quarantine at their homes, May said. This will mean that the former campers must stay in the house but others in the family may pass in or out.

The two-week observation quarantine had been imposed by May after the death of Harold J. Rickmers, 13, Allentown, another camper. The Allentown boy also became ill while at camp and died Aug. 9 at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, about an hour after he was admitted.

BREAKING GROUND for the erection of a new youth center and Sunday School building at Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church last week were the church members and officials shown above. ## Supervisors Seek Truck Tax

Harrisburg — The Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors will ask the 1953 General Assembly to enact stiffer taxes for heavy trucks to offset undue damage, wear and tear, and excessive costs which they cause, the Association's official magazine, "The Pennsylvania Township News" reported today.

This resolution, passed unanimously by the officers and executive committee of the Association, urges the General Assembly to enact a weight-distance tax on heavy trucks traveling all roads in Pennsylvania.

H. A. Thomson, Secretary of the Association, estimated that fewer than 10% of Pennsylvania trucks would be subject to such a tax, but that some 20,000 out of state trucks would be affected and thus help pay their share of the wear and tear on Pennsylvania highways. At present, out of state truckers pay only the motor fuel tax for use of the State Highways and in some cases, avoid part of that.

Mr. Thomson stated that such an act, similar to the New York State weight-distance tax, applies only to heavy freight truck carriers. The proposed law, as urged by the Supervisor's Association, would also allocate one-half of these receipts to the local governments, cities, boroughs, and townships of the state, for aid in the maintenance of their bridges and roads which are seriously affected by heavy freight truck traffic.

Two Injured In Collision On Route 90

Henryville — A two-car collision near Henryville House on Route 90 yesterday resulted in a total of $550 damages to both vehicles, Mount Pocono State police said.

According to police, a sedan driven by Charles B. Minor, 38, of 2107 Livingston, Allentown, was traveling north on Route 90 toward Mount Pocono when the driver attempted to make a left-hand turn in front of a vehicle approaching from the opposite direction.

Driver of the second vehicle was listed as Edwin R. Tillapaugh, Downsville, N. Y.

Police said the Tillapaugh-car ran into the vehicle operated by Minor. Mrs. Tillapaugh suffered knee cuts. Four children of the couple, also riding in the car, were uninjured by the crash.

A passenger in the Minor vehicle, Grace Bernhard, 41, of the same address in Allentown, suffered a "possible sprained right ankle," police said.

Damage to Minor's car was estimated at $150 with $400 damages to the Tillapaugh vehicle.

Mount Pocono State police said their investigation of the accident is continuing.

Woman Claims MP's Posed As Newsmen

Grove City, Pa. (AP) — A distraught Grove City woman who works as a domestic at Grove City College to support her blind mother says three military policemen who posed as newspapermen have taken her 22-year-old son into custody because he was AWOL from the Army.

A spokesman for the military police detachment in Pittsburgh said there was no record that Pvt. Allan Keller had been seized by their men. Although Mrs. Keller said she believed her son was taken to Pittsburgh from this little Mercer County town, he could not be located there.

Keller, who alternately read his Bible and listened to religious programs on his radio, previously had said:

"I have heard the call to God. The force of God is established in me. They can't take me away now, even by force."

Mrs. Keller said the three men who took her son into custody "tricked him into going out the front door when they said they were newspapermen."

General Dies

East Grinstead, Eng. (AP) — Lt. Gen. Sir George F. MacMunn, 83, the man largely responsible for carrying out the evacuation of British troops in the Dardanelles campaign of World War One, died yesterday.

Mammoths were about the size of existing Indian elephants, keeping with the amount of available food.

Hunters, however, ran into bad weather and poor hunting conditions. This resulted in a harvest of "about 38,000" deer during the hunting season.

As a result, many deer died during the winter months of starvation.

This year a total of 224,660 antlerless licenses will be issued in the State as a whole.

N.J. Couple Injured In Collision

Mount Pocono — A New Jersey couple was slightly injured early Saturday morning one and one-half miles south of here on Route 611 when their car ran into the rear of a truck-trailer.

Mount Pocono State police who investigated the accident said Lewis Steblinski, 32, of 21 Rose St., Paterson, N. J., was driving north on Route 611 toward Mount Pocono when his car rammed into the rear of a truck-trailer operated by Earl Perry, 30, of 324 Spring St., Dunmore, Pa., moving in the same direction on the highway.

Steblinski and his 29-year-old wife were treated for face and body bruises by Dr. E. O. Hendrick, Mount Pocono and released following treatment.

State police said Steblinski told them he was "not sure" how the accident happened.

Resulting damage to the New Jersey car was estimated at $1,400. Damage to the truck: $100.

New High In Religious Affiliation

New York, (AP)—Nearly three out of five Americans belonged to a church or other religious body in 1951, The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. said yesterday.

Religion had 88,673,005 adherents in the United States, by the end of 1951, the council said, setting a new high in the history of the nation.

Council figures showed an increase of 1,842,515 over 1950, a growth of 2 per cent compared with an estimated population increase of 1.7 per cent.

Between 1940 and 1950, the Council said church affiliation increased 34 per cent while the population rose 15 per cent. It said church members constitute 58 per cent of the population, compared with 49 per cent in 1940 and 47 per cent in 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson R. Herr after their wedding on Saturday.

Miss Kathryn Predmore Is Bride Of Carson R. Herr

Miss Kathryn Predmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Predmore, 71 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, was married on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church to Carson R. Herr, son of Mrs. Edgar Herr and the late Mr. Herr of Manheim.

Rev. Frank Wingerter performed the ceremony before the altar decorated with bouquets of fall flowers. Walter Schlough was organist.

The bride wore a gown of white embroidered organza over tulle with a standing mandarin collar, and a fitted bodice which buttoned down the front with tiny self-covered buttons. With it she wore matching mitts of embroidered organza, and a tulle veil which was held fast by a flat halo of small flowers. Her colonial bouquet was of white and pale yellow chrysanthemums.

Her maid-of-honor, Miss Betty Randall, of Easton, wore a gown of aqua lace with a matching half-hat with stiffened brim. She also carried a colonial bouquet of fall flowers in vivid hues.

Eugene Hollinger served as his brother's best man.

The bride's mother wore a gown of beige and brown with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. The bridesmaid's mother wore navy blue with white accessories and a corsage of white mums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the reception rooms of the church, where a tiered wedding cake surrounded by painted daisies formed the centerpiece of the bride's table.

Leaving for their wedding trip to Virginia, the bride wore a print dress with black figures, and a red bolero jacket, and with it wore a black velvet hat piped in red, and a corsage of white roses.

They plan to make their home in Wilmington, Del., where Mr. Herr is in charge of the office and warehouse of the Lindsay-Overholder Co., and where Mrs. Herr is a member of the Wilmington school faculty.

The bride is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College, and taught school in Somerville, N.J., before accepting her present position in Wilmington.

Mr. Herr was graduated from Manheim High School, West Chester State Teachers' College and New York University. He also taught in Somerville before assuming his present position.

Family Homestead Draws Visitors From Arkansas

Hamilton Township—A visit to the family homestead has marked the stay of Capt. and Mrs. John Kidney of Hot Springs, Ark., in Hamilton Township where they are visiting Mrs. Kidney's cousin, Charles Hobbs and his family in Neola.

Mrs. Kidney is the daughter of the late William and Rachel Hobbs Shoemaker, and was born and raised on the farm now owned by the Muller Brothers Stock Farm. She remembered her father predicting that the hills and woodlands of the farm would be excellent for raising beef cattle, which is the use to which they are being put at the present time. Both her parents lived to be very old. Mr. Shoemaker, 95, and Mrs. Shoemaker, 93.

Captain Kidney is now retired.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The weather, the end of vacation, and the news, all conspired to make this weekend as crisp and clear as a bird on the wing. Just look at the pictures of our just wedding couples. Don't they make you feel happier, just looking at them, whether it was 45 years, 25 years, 25 minutes they'd been married.

Matter of fact Walton and Sarah Dietrich didn't get married at all. Oh, they were all ready but the minister couldn't remember the bride's sister's married name and never did find her house. Finally got the Methodist minister, they did, but anyway he did a right good job, as you can see.

When Kathryn Predmore Herr gets to her 45th wedding anniversary, she'll be able to hear again their voices as they exchanged wedding vows because Elwood Feltham made a tape recording of the ceremony, and is going to give them the record for a wedding present.

Well, anyway everybody was feeling mighty glad about all these weddings. Just the kind of a weekend to go to a party, it was. Mrs. Knob and Mrs. Dietrich are both gardeners, and there certainly never was a better day for visiting their gardens.

Oh I suppose this week the news will simmer down as everybody gets ready for the last few weeks of summer but right now it seems that there's nothing to it at all. We'll just tuck up our feet and soar right off into Autumn as free as the birds, and just as noisy.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Weary, of Stroudsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Ray Compton, of Bangor.

No date has been announced for the wedding.

The Geo. Hausers To Mark 38th Anniversary

Delaware Water Gap—Mr. and Mrs. George Hauser will celebrate their 38th wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They were married in Delaware Water Gap by Rev. B. Jones of the Water Gap Presbyterian Church, and have lived there all their married lives.

Mrs. Hauser is the former Kathryn Deery of Wilmington, Del., and they have three children, Lt. Donald Hauser and Lt. Sylvia Hauser, both of the U. S. Navy, and Mrs. Jack LaBar, of Delaware Water Gap.

Mr. Hauser has been for years an elder in the Presbyterian Church, of the Mountain. Mrs. Hauser is president of the General Hospital Auxiliary.

One 'Bridge' Party Where Hearts Were Trump

Cherry Valley—A new kind of "bridge party" was held last week at the Russell Drake home when friends and neighbors gathered to help Mr. Drake replace a bridge which had torn loose and floated down stream during the recent heavy storm.

While guide lines fastened to the bridge were pulled upstream by tractors, the men waded chest deep in the water to lift the bridge in place, while others stood on it to keep it in balance.

Meanwhile the women had arranged a supper on the bank, and after the bridge had been firmly anchored in place with much laughter and shouting, everyone gathered for food and fellowship.

Those who helped were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bush and son Scotty; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dennis and daughters, Nancy, Linda and Gerlie Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reish and children, Sharon, Brenda and Dwayne, Mr. and Mrs. Orien Reish and children, Joan and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reish and sons, Lawrence and Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Yenick, Bill Heckman, Russell Drake and son Stephen.

Russell Winters Is Honored At Birthday Party

Russell Winters, of 24 Stofflet St., Stroudsburg, celebrated his 20th birthday at a lawn party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lutjens, 42 Stofflet St., on Saturday night. A buffet table was decorated with a three-tier birthday cake and there were games and dancing.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harrison and family, Allen Harrison, Miss Aquila Couterman, Miss Pat Clifton, Mrs. Rose Stump, James Frailey, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Winters and family, Miss Shirley Van Tran, James Baldwin, Lulu, Sharon, and Mildred Winters, Mr. and Mrs. William Lutjens and family, Mrs. Norma Miller and family, Mrs. Eva Wedger and daughter, Raymond Miller, Mrs. Laura Miller, Ruth, Peggy, Anna, Agnes, Georgianna Miller, Henry Miller Jr., Jim, John Ginger Gough, John Strouse, George, Danny Staples, Raymond McHarrison, Devane, Terry, Willard, Sherry, Sylvia and Sandy Talada, all of Stroudsburg RD 1, John and Floyd Mohr, of Stockertown, and the guest of honor, Russell Winters.

Dietrichs Are Honored On 45th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Dietrich, of Arlington Heights were yesterday honored as streams of visitors poured through their home in celebration of their 45th wedding anniversary. The open house had been arranged by their children: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dietrich.

Miss Fannie Swartzwelder, Mrs. Calvin Howell, Mrs. Clyde White and Miss Sara Dietrich presided at the table. A tiered wedding cake topped by fresh flowers formed the centerpiece. It had been baked by Mrs. White. Other flowers from the Dietrich's garden as well as flowers from friends filled the house.

Mrs. Dietrich, the former Sarah Jones, wore the dress of embroidered white handkerchief linen in which she had been married 45 years ago at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bertha Kreppa, 920 Eighth Ave., Altoona. Mrs. Kreppa, who had also helped to make the wedding dress, was here for the party yesterday, as were Mrs. Dietrich's brother, George Jones, and Mrs. Jones of Holidaysburg, and Mrs. Dietrich's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wenzelberger of Easton.

Mr. Dietrich, who is a native of Northampton County, was graduated from Lafayette College, and recently returned for the 50th anniversary of his graduation. He was principal of the school at Jersey Shore when he met his future wife, who was teaching there, shortly after her graduation from Juniata College.

The Dietrichs purchased their present home on the Trail and moved to Stroudsburg in 1912. Mr. Dietrich has been a teacher here, as well as a farmer and is now employed by the Pennsylvania State Highway Department. They have three granddaughters and one grandson.

He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church in Stroudsburg, where Mrs. Dietrich teaches the Testament League and Collins Classes. Mrs. Dietrich is also active in the Monroe Council of Republican Women.

The Dietrichs provided the flowers from their garden for yesterday's service at the Presbyterian church.

Altar Guild Has Outing At Heller's

The Altar Guild of St. John's Lutheran Church held a hot dog roast last week at the home of Mrs. Lucy Heller, Phillips St. Mrs. Herbert Rupert opened the meeting with devotions and Mrs. J. Barnes, president, was in charge of the business meeting when plans were made for decorating for the Harvest Home service.

Good food and excellent weather marked the party with Mrs. Heller, Mrs. Walter Heckman, Mrs. William Heckman and Mrs. Charles Gege as hostesses.

Photograph by Dean

Through a typographical error, the Camera's Club's prize-winning picture, "Pop Rustan," taken by Guy Dean, which appeared on this page in Saturday's Daily Record, was credited to the Daily Record, which of course had nothing to do with the picture outside of publishing it because of its intrinsic worth.

Former Student Wins Honors At Ohio State U.

R. Barry Pynn, son of Mrs. Francis A. Lash, of Pittsfield, Mass., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zimmerman, formerly of the Stroudsburgs, has been named to the honor role at Ohio State University's College of Agriculture.

Mr. Pynn, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1949, has completed his junior year at the university and plans to return in September for his senior year before taking up graduate work in veterinary training.

Mountain Folk Visit Relatives Working At Shore

There was an influx of Pocono Mountain folks at Cape May, N. J., on the weekend of August 16, as parents and friends of local young people working in Cape May visited them there.

All of them are working for Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kintner, managers of the Hotel Devon Restaurant, or at the hotel itself. The Kintners in the winter time live on West Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallie of East Stroudsburg visited their daughters Carol and Yvonne; Mrs. Russell Shabough of Stroudsburg, visited her daughters, Donna and Della; Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Riedmiller Sr. and Mrs. Claude Tabler, of East Stroudsburg, were visiting their son Robert "Chef" Riedmiller, who is head chef at the Hotel Devon. The Kintners' son, Mitchell Strunk, is assistant chef.

Other friends included Mary Jane Shachow, Les Slutter, Dick Campeotto, Mrs. Inchei Stettler, and David Noble, of Stroudsburg, and Edward Heath, of Bangor, now first-class naval architect at Lakehurst Naval Air Base.

The Kintners and other workers plan to return to the Stroudsburgs on September 2 after a successful season.

Visitor Kept Busy Cutting Hair

Cherry Valley—A barber pole sprouted on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Orien Reish last Tuesday when the children of the neighborhood took advantage of the visit of her sister, Vesta Miller, of Newton, N. J., and her scissors.

They actually had rigged up a barber pole, and one by one the locks of Brenda and Dwayne Reish, Talitha and Scott Bush, Olive and Bruce Reish, Joan and Gary Reish and Brian Reish piled up around the impromptu barber chair.

Drawn by the excitement some of the woman had manicures, and they topped off the day with a handkerchief shower for Mrs. Leonard Reish who had celebrated her birthday the previous Sunday.

Others present were Mrs. Orien Reish, Sharon Reish and Mrs. Glenn Reish, as well as Mrs. Miller, and a friend, Florence Plotts, also of Newton.

Around The Stroudsburgs

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Piza arrived home Friday night after spending the summer in Spain where they visited Mr. Piza's mother and other relatives.

Mrs. Donald Hahn, Mrs. Arthur Bond and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hendrickson motored to the Allentown airport yesterday to see Mrs. Hahn's son, Pvt. Clyde Hahn enplane for Camp Stillman, Cal., where he expects his orders for overseas. He has just completed a 20 day furlough at home.

Mrs. Louise Volkoff, of Richmond, Va., is visiting her son, Dr. Cyril Volkoff and his family, 43 North Sixth St., Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Miller Jr., of Stroudsburg, spent last week with Cpl. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller at Fort Dix, N. J.

Mrs. Abbie Sutton, of Portland is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harry Hoffman, North Courtland St., East Stroudsburg.

Silver Wedding Anniversary For The Edward C. Knobs

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Knob, 30 Bridge St., celebrated their silver wedding anniversary yesterday when about 150 friends from far and near came to pay them honor.

A tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the buffet table set in the garden. There were flowers and gifts in silver from their friends.

The Knobs were married 25 years ago in Morristown, N.J., by the late Monsignor Edward J. Ellard, and moved to Stroudsburg in 1931 where they have been active in many club and fraternal affairs. Mr. Knob, a member of the firm of the Sun Printery, is secretary-treasurer of the Central Labor Union. Mrs. Knob, past president of the Monroe County Garden Club and present conservation and bird chairman, is also secretary-treasurer of the ITU auxiliary which attended in a body.

Two shadows only marred the day: one the fact that their son, Edward A. Knob, working for his advanced degree at Ann Arbor was unable to be home because of an operation he is due to undergo this week; and the other the misfortune of a friend of the family, Mrs. May Budway, of New York, who fell on her arrival and broke an ankle.

There were guests from Paramus, Morristown, Butler, New Jersey; Goshen, New York and of course Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

The daughter, Mrs. Nancy Quisimo, assisted them in receiving and their grandson, who will be one year old this week, was also present.

Mrs. John Nauman is feted at stork shower.

Barrett—Mrs. John Nauman, of Laurel Pine Road, was given a surprise stork shower on Thursday night, August 14, at the home of Mrs. Jane Fisk, Price's Drive.

On the table with the gifts had been placed a scale, holding a doll dressed as a baby, with a pink and blue shower umbrella overhead.

Guests were: Mrs. Margaret Walters, Mrs. Carolyn Siglin, Mrs. Irene Siglin, Mrs. Linda Komenko, Mrs. Gloria Nauman, Mrs. Viola Nauman, Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, Mrs. E. M. Verroy, Mrs. Marge Shumaker, Mrs. Frieda Bender, Mrs. Dolly Price, Miss Jean Nauman.

Invited but unable to attend was Mrs. Stella Vogt.

Admiral Dual Temp Keeps Foods Fresh

Foods don't dry out in an Admiral Dual-Temp, says O. W. Megargel, of Megargels, 511 Main St. in Stroudsburg.

Foods stay fresh, moist, appetizing days longer without covers! The Dual-Temp's cool, dewy, moist cold compartment keeps food fresh and flavorful days longer than ordinary refrigerators. Roasts, lettuce, cheese, baked goods — any foods — don't dry out, wilt or wither — thanks to moist cold. And the magic ultraviolet lamp keeps food fresh from mingling, purifies the air, retards mold and bacteria. Think of it!

Foods stored uncovered and all foods stay good to eat... fresh, crisp and tasteful... for days on end. This makes your food dollar go further... saves you time and work, too.

The Admiral Dual-Temp never needs defrosting! Because there is no frost to remove in the moist-cold compartment... the part of your refrigerator you use most during the day. Concealed cooling coils and an ideal 38° degree temperature eliminate frost. No mess, no pans to empty, no water to mop up... your usual weekly chore of defrosting is gone forever.

Stop in Megargels, and see the beautiful Admiral Dual-Temp Refrigerators today... Megargels is conveniently located at 511 Main St., in Stroudsburg, just across the street from the Sherman Theater.

County May Become Hub Of Mushroom Industry

While Chester County is recognized as the hub of the mushroom growing industry, a migration to Monroe County in the past 18 months lends the opinion that this section some day might rank with other sections in growing the cultivated mushroom.

This opinion stems from the location here of three farms, with the fourth on the way to completion; all within a two-year period.

Veteran mushroom growers A. Salerni and Anthony Calgeri were among the first to construct similar block buildings on Sterling Road, just north of Mount Pocono. The area now serves as the focal point for mushroom growing, with the sites all within a short distance of each other.

Salerni's nephew, Robert Passante, was the third man to enter the field and last Summer began the erection of a 60-foot house. Since then Frank Manneri, also an uncle of Passante, has started to build and will have his cinder block structure in operation before long. Calgeri, meanwhile, retired from the business and his farm is being operated by A. Rampke.

First records of the cultivation of mushrooms was during the reign of Louis 14th, 1638 to 1715. By the year 1707 a Frenchman, Tournetfort, wrote a complete description of the cultivation methods.

In the environs of Paris many caves from which building stones were quarried, then abandoned, served as the growing spot for mushrooms. The industry later spread to England and other countries.

In England mushrooms were not grown in caves, but in outdoor ridge beds and later in greenhouses. The first knowledge of the cultivation in the United States was around New York City. It has been indicated that mushrooms were grown here as far back as 1864. The next extensive development was around Kennett Square, near Philadelphia.

As years passed the methods of cultivating improved and about 1913 the industry received an impetus with the introduction of a system called pure culture spawn. This was produced by selecting a good mushroom with the qualities desired, dropping the spores under sterile conditions, germinating these spores and inoculating the germinated spores into a bottle of sterilized horse manure. An ordinary milk bottle was used as the cultural flask and the contents were protected from outside contamination during the growing period by means of a cotton plug.

Scientific research continued unabated over the years and still is being conducted today. Mushrooms may grow successfully in a great variety of places and in Mount Pocono the operators are cognizant of the aspects.

The room must be easy to ventilate since cultivation requires plenty of fresh air; no direct sunlight falls on the beds; the location must be accessible to transportation and the temperature in the growing room must be maintained above 68 degrees. Mushroom houses in Mount Pocono are constructed of cinder block and contain cross sections of beds spaced rather evenly and encased in boards. The beds are about six inches deep and about four foot sections. Inside the house also is a packing room and each building has its own heating system. An adequate water supply also is essential for production and is found in the shelters.

The local mushroom growers compost their manure in the open an some expect soon to install machinery which will perform faster than the manually operated turning forks now in use. These yards are kept free of contamination from the fermenting manure and haul the product in baskets to the plant in narrow gauge track cars.

First operation consists of hauling the manure to the wooden beds within the plant. Then the house is closed and at period of 10 days or less of sterilization takes place. The temperature inside the house is checked continually during this period since it keeps increasing until it reaches about 140 degrees.

Once the temperature hits the desired degree, the house is fumigated with cyanogas and closed again for two weeks. Then top soil is placed on the beds and this soil, generally, is tested and must be stone free when spread. The top soil is placed about one and a quarter inches thick and after several weeks the mushrooms begin to appear. Two months later the growing is over and the operator prepares for the next crop. There is productivity in the summer and winter.

After the mushrooms are picked they are assorted to various sizes, packed and sent to the New York market. While production varies, it is generally believed the average growth is about two pounds per square foot. Once the mushrooms are picked, the house is cleaned thoroughly and readied for the next crop.

Insect control is a vital factor in raising mushrooms, and for that reason the farm's owners spray and dust continually to assure top quality.

The actual need is shipped here from large companies who maintain laboratories to continually turn out a better quality mushroom. The spawn (or seed) is minute vegetative strands that divide, reduplicate and intertwine through a medium made of manure, tobacco stems, rye grain or other suitable substances. This mass of medium is overrun with living cells of the mushroom organism and is used to inoculate the beds of prepared manure.

There are several types of spawn, but the more popular method of processing is done by growing in a bottle. The germinated spores of mushrooms are encased in manure, tobacco or grain and kept under constant temperature until completely grown with spawn. When the grower is ready to use this culture it is necessary to break the bottle and remove the contents. Another flask with no neck like the milk bottle, is stopped with cotton, grown and when the spawn is ready the top is removed, contents taken out and wrapped in parchment paper for shipment to the grower.

Much time and effort goes in to the production of mushrooms and yet the employment is practically nil for outsiders, except at certain periods, and then the work only lasts for several days. But during the growing period the owners must be on constant guard and have innumerable chores to perform.

Still in its infancy in Monroe County, the mushroom business is recognized as one of the expanding industries since the public demand is constantly on the increase.

T. A. Tweed Dies Here; Shipbuilder

Thomas A. Tweed, who resided for many years in Hokendauqua, died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Gallagher, 622 Scott St., Strodsburg, after a brief illness. He was 83.

He was born in Scotland Dec. 25, 1868, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tweed. After coming to this country he resided in Philadelphia, where he settled for 32 years. He was employed by Cramp Shipyards there, then moved to Hokendauqua, where he worked for Thomas Iron Company.

Married twice, he was preceded in death by both wives, Catherine Layton Tweed and Elizabeth McHughan Tweed, and by three children.

He was a member of the Presbyterian faith.

Survivors include three other daughters, Mrs. Harry Rhodes, Allentown; Mrs. John Sheppard, Sayre, Pa., and Mrs. Oscar Bitler, Elmira, N. Y., a brother, Robert, in Scotland; four grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Claims Injustice

Islerhorn, Germany — A former German general, Bernhard Ramcke, declared today every German who contributes to the Allied defense forces before all German war criminals are freed "must share the guilt for the injustice done against Germany since the war."

Local Men Will Attend Convention

The 86th annual State convention of the Patriotic Order Sons of America will convene at the Penn Harris hotel in Harrisburg August 26 to 28.

POS of A is now in its 105th year of organization. Among those slated to attend from Monroe county are Dale H. Loran, William J. Hamblin, E. E. Butts, C. Walter Counterman, all of East Strodsburg, and Henry Wells of Sciota.

Local members will leave at noon today for the encampment. They are slated to return Thursday.

Highlighting the convention from the speakers' platform will be Sen. Edward Martin, Rep. Francis E. Walter, Past National and State president Orrin E. Boyle, and National Secretary-General Director Hugh G. Mitchell, Statesville, N. C.

An estimated 500 officers, delegates and representatives are expected to attend the camp convention.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to point out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Art Smith, Polk High School baseball and basketball coach, had a string of five straight doubles in yesterday's tussle with Maple Lake. Smith, who handles the center field chores for the Newfoundland Association, batted out a pair of two baggers in his first two trips to the plate against Maple Lake yesterday, after hitting three consecutive triples against Moscow the final three times at the plate last Sunday. Smith's hitting is one of the reasons the Bears are currently tied for first place in the Pocono Mountain Association flag race.

Bob Van BenScoten's play around third base has also created much favorable talk in the Newfoundland area. Van BenScoten received a late start in baseball, but according to infielders he is now making up for lost time. Ray Scola's control was on the good side yesterday, as he walked only three members of the Tobyhanna-Pocono Mountain League, while retiring 18 on strikes. Ray was touched for only two hits, both harmless singles, as Kuskil went on to hang up an 8-1 victory.

Harry Schaeffer, well known in local athletic circles, departed from New York by plane at 7:30 p. m. on Saturday and was scheduled to arrive in Oakland early Sunday morning, in time to join the Oakland entry in the Pacific Coast League for a doubleheader yesterday afternoon. The Yankees claim that Schaeffer's going to Oakland is not part of a waiver deal with the New York Giants and that the Bronx Bombers for spring training next year. If the Yankees should win the pennant, Harry still would receive a slice of the World Series melon.

Dooris, Doug and John Schoonover and Les Carlton, the latter widely known as The Daily Record photographer, were present on Saturday when the Yanks took the measure of the Cleveland Indians, 1-0, at Yankee Stadium. Sal DiFede, Roseto resident and a graduate of E. Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was also on hand on Saturday to watch his beloved Yankees win a close contest. He also saw Luke Easter put on a terrific demonstration of distance hitting in pre-game batting practice. However, Vic Kasch made certain that the demonstration was of only a pre-game nature. Frank Helli will be among those on hand to see the Old Timer's game at the Stadium this coming Saturday.

Al Gardella, former North Atlantic League pilot, has his Pulaski entry in the Appalachian League battling for a playoff berth, after a horrible start in the present flag race. George Heller, who first pitched in professional baseball with Carbondale, of the North Atlantic League, won his first start for Jacksonville, of the class "A" South Atlantic League recently. George was optioned to Jacksonville by Nashville, of the Southern Association.

Not only the weather, but the baseball scores are taking on a football-like appearance of late. It took a bit of double checking yesterday to be sure that three of the games reported to this column were baseball and not football. For instance—West End A. C. won over Redders, 76-23, in a game that took more than four hours to play; Redders defeated Ansonia, 26-8, and Tobyhanna, of the Pocono Mountain Association, won over Moscow, 24-5. Although no definite reason is known for the high scores by this writer, it could be the weather or the present football feeling beginning to make itself felt in the air.

The favorites have both been eliminated from the Blue Mountain League playoffs in quick fashion. Portland took it on the chin at the hands of Tatamy, 2-1, in 16 innings, to suffer its second straight loss, after winning the opening game of the series. Stockertown used the same score to trip Roseto for the second straight time. The Portland-Tatamy encounter was the longest one played in the Blue Mountain League this season.

Stockertown needed a 3-0 victory in a special playoff game with Pocono A. C. to even make the post-season action. It is quite possible, according to reports, that Hazleton will be granted either the Harrisburg or Salisbury Interstate League franchise next season. Hazleton formerly featured an entry in the class "D" North Atlantic League. Harrisburg recently played before only 265 customers in its home park. You can't keep a class "B" club in attendance with that sort of opposition. Charley Decker, former Waymart High School baseball and basketball star finished the season as the number two strikeout man in the Wayne County League, as the Waymart hurler listed 97 strikeouts, second only to Joe Granville's 145. Decker was also a basketball star for Keystone Junior College last winter.

Serafin Captures Philadelphia PGA Tournament Title

Kowal Fails To Hold First Round Lead

Shawnee - on - Delaware — John Serafin, 23-year-old long-ball hitting pro, yesterday took the Philadelphia District PGA Tournament title back to Elkview Country Club near Carbondale, after 38 holes of thrilling golf, which featured Serafin in a terrific rally, after being four-down after 29 holes. Matt Kowal, Philmont Country Club, saw his almost certain championship go up in smoke here on the Shawnee course.

Three down at the end of the 18-hole morning round, during which Kowal blasted a five under par 35, 32, 67, the unbending Serafin, son of Felix, the great pro from Fox Hill C.C., who is a former State Open champion, kept dogging Kowal until he tied the match up on the 34th and for the first time went ahead by taking the 35th with a par four while Kowal bogied the hole.

Both men took par fours on the 37th and on the 38th Serafin was inside of Kowal by two feet when they reached the green in three. Kowal's attempted six-footer for a bird was wide but young Serafin sank a four-footer for a bird, the hole, the match and the championship.

No Indication Although three-down at the end of the first 18-hole score by no means indicated the play in the early round. The Carbondale youngster had 26 putts for the initial 18-holes to Kowal's 29, but he also missed several putts that put him in trouble.

Kowal's putting for the first 18 brought him six birds all of which were results of putts from 12 to 20 feet. Serafin who had five birds was not getting his putts down as fine as Kowal.

At the 27th hole Kowal was still three up on Serafin and went four up when he birdied the 28th as the players made the last turn for home. Spectators who had been watching for Serafin to crack, thought that this was it. Instead, the husky 200-pounder, who was a former sandlot baseball pitcher, stood remarkably while veteran Kowal showed signs of cracking when Serafin took the next two holes in par figures. A bird on the 32nd and another on the 34th brought Serafin up on even terms with the 37-year-old Philmont pro.

A 12-foot par for a bird on the par three 35th, which put Serafin ahead looked like the finishing touch as far as Kowal was concerned, but there was one trick left in the veteran's bag and he heaved it out to sink a 30-footer on the 36th to even up the match and send it into extra holes.

A's Retain Fourth Place

Philadelphia (A) — The Philadelphia Athletics retained their hold on fourth place in the American League pennant race yesterday by grabbing a 5-1 second game decision over Chicago after the White Sox had triumphed in the opener, 11-7.

Protest A's Manager Jimmy Dykes had announced he was playing the nightcap under protest, after a first game argument with manager Paul Richards and the four umpires. However, it didn't matter when his club won, leaving the 17,188 partisan Shibe Park fans happy.

Bosox Sweep Two From Brownies

Boston (A) — The Boston Red Sox scored eight times in the fifth for a 12-1 nightcap victory and a doubleheader sweep over the St. Louis Browns yesterday after Sox pilot Lou Boudreau's perfect squeeze bunt against Satchel Paige clinched a 2-1 win in the 10-inning opener.

Reading Club Favored

Allentown, Pa. (A) — Chalking up its third straight triumph with a 13 to 9 decision over Danville at nearby Coplay last night in a twilight game, Reading's Keystone Juniors last night ruled prime favorites to win the annual Pennsylvania State American Legion Junior Baseball Championship.

SHAWNEE—In one of the most thrilling golf matches ever played over the historic Shawnee Inn and Country Club course, John Serafin, 23-year-old Elkview, C.C., of Carbondale, pro won the Philadelphia District PGA championship when he defeated Matt Kowal, Philmont C.C., on the 38th hole. In the presentation ceremonies Serafin received a check for $500 dollars and the championship trophy. Kowal received a check for $300. ## Tobyhanna Runs Wild Over Moscow To Tie For Title, 24-5

Gouldsboro — Tobyhanna had no trouble assuring itself of a tie for the Pocono Mountain Association championship yesterday, as the charges of Manager "Candy" Dailey banged out a 24-5 victory over Moscow, here on the Gouldsboro field.

Dodd Paces Field At Local Track

Stan Dodd, one of two stock car driving brothers from Middletown, N. Y., stroked to victory in the 30-lap feature event here at the Stroudsburg Speedway yesterday, with approximately 30 cars taking part in the final race on the agenda. There was no time kept of the event due to an accident.

Dodd outdistanced Paul Barbiche, Flemington, N. J., who made a bid for victory after suffering a serious accident last year. Dan Mondics, Trenton, crossed the finish line third.

Harold Brokhoff, Pottsville's "Flying Milkman", recovered from tire trouble at the midway point in the feature and seriously threatened the leaders at the end, only to fall short in his terrific bid for victory in his special power car.

Stan Dodd finished second in the second qualifying event, while Brokhoff came in third in the same heat. Brokhoff won this event in 4:27.02. The first qualifying heat, each of which were 10 laps, featured Barbiche as the winner, in 4:47.03, Eddie Jason, Neshaan, N. J., and Johnny Cabral, Paterson, N. J., were second and third respectively.

George Romer, another Middletown, N. Y., entry, came home first in the third heat, in 4:28, with Phil Demola, Newark, second and Tom Colfax, Haskell, N. J., third.

Joe Romer, George's brother, won the consolation grid, as the Middletown, N. Y., driver covered the distance in 4:26. Mondics was second and "Rocky" DiNatale, Trenton, finished third.

Brokhoff was a special match race of five laps in 2:28.01, with Russ Dodd and Barbiche rounding out the field in that order.

West End A. C. Clips Redders

Gilbert — West End A. C. won a football-like 26-23 Pocono Mountain Association decision over Redders here yesterday, in a game that required well over four hours to play.

Winner Bob Burkett, youthful right-hander, was credited with the victory in the marathon contest. John Bonser, former Chestnut-Hill High star, was charged with the mound loss.

Children's Tourney Planned

Glen Brook Country Club will present its initial Children's Golf Tournament under the new ownership tomorrow, it was announced last night by Mike Rubish, club pro.

The tournament is open to boys and girls in the Monroe County area and each entrant must be cleared with Rubish today. Additional information on the tournament may also be obtained from the pro. The tournament is scheduled to get underway at 10 a.m.

Stockertown Wins Second From Roseto

Stockertown — Stockertown, the number four club in the final standings of the Blue Mountain League, eliminated Roseto, the number two team in the same standings, from the post-season playoffs yesterday with a 2-1 victory, here on the winning organization's home field. It was the second straight win for Stockertown, while Roseto failed to register a victory in the series.

The home team touched Bob "Lefty" Muhr for a single run in the bottom of the seventh round, after the veteran southpaw and Phil Ciarrocchi had matched scoreless frames through the top of the stretch frame.

However, Roseto, under the spirited guidance of Manager Mike Renaldo, came back to even the count at 1-1 in the top of the ninth, only to have the not-to-be-denied Stockertown club come up with one run in the bottom of the ninth to gain the victory.

Tatamy Wins Playoff Series From Portland

Tatamy—Tatamy swept into the final round of the Blue Mountain League post-season playoff yesterday with a 2-1 victory over Portland, the regular season title holder, in a torrid battle that required 16 innings to settle. Tatamy won the series two games to one.

The Tatamy club scored in the bottom of the ninth to match the counter accounted for by Portland in the opening round, and then came back to win the game with a singleton in the bottom of the 16th frame.

Portland's only run off Walter Kostenbader was an unearned tally, as Frank Sharp reached first base on Bill Gaston's error and scored all the way from first when Bob Kraycik threw Art Osmun's sacrifice wildly past first base.

The Contest

Tony Liberto opened the ninth by driving out a single and moving to second on Kraycik's sacrifice. Stasiak went down on strikes, but the Portland management elected to give the hard hitting Howard "Howie" Gutshall an intentional free ticket to first base. Dan Siegfried followed with a single to plate Liberto.

Greenmoyer and Kostenbader continued to hang up the "goose-eggs" until the 16th, when Tatamy, the third place contingent at the end of the regular campaign, pushed across the winning marker.

Kostenbader, who gave up only two hits during the marathon contest, walked to open the frame, went to second on Liberto's single and to third as the bases became loaded on Ed O'Rourke's error on Kraycik's roller. Stasiak went down on strikes, but Gutshall lashed out his only hit of the game to settle the outcome in favor of Tatamy.

The National Old Masters championship to be held in conjunction with the Waite also will have a field of former greats including Chick Evans, Chicago, two-time national amateur and national open champion; Tom Robbins, Larchmont, N.Y., national seniors champion; and Ed Eisenhower brother of "Duke," the Republican nominee for president.

Bears Down Maple Lake, 6-2

Maple Lake-Newfoundland remained tied for the first place at the end of the regular Pocono Mountain Association season yesterday by taking the measure of Maple Lake, 6-2, here on the losing contingent's home grounds.

The Bears opened the scoring with one run in the first but had to break a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth, then add another singleton in the seventh, and in the eighth and one more in the ninth to account for its winning margin.

"Buck" Hutchins, who won his fifth straight game, was touched for singletons in the fourth and eighth rounds.

Art Smith led the winning attack with three hits in four trips to the plate and also stole one base. The Newfoundland club did the bulk of its damage on an even dozen hits.

Pirates Earn Even Break With Braves

Pittsburgh (4) — Rookie pitcher Ronnie Neechal had home run help from Ralph Kiner and "Sonny" Senerchia to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 win over the Boston Braves in the first game of a twin bill yesterday but Boston came back to snatch the nightcap in a 10th inning comedy of errors, 5-3.

In the second game, Boston's Sid Gordon singled to send John Logan home for a run in the first inning and Dick Groat let Paul Burris' blow go through him to score Ed Matthews in the second frame.

Deadlock
The Pirates tied it in the bottom of the second on a double by Joe Garagiola and singles by Johnny Berardino and Tony Baritone.

Pocono Art Group's First Outdoor Show Is Success

PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST AT WORK—One of the added features of the weekend exhibit by members of the Pocono Mountains Art Group was a series of portrait sittings for artist Dave Miller, Normal St., East Stroudsburg. Subject shown here is Miss Olivia Dreher, N. Eighth St., Stroudsburg, who is also chairman of the exhibit. The show, which featured varied works by members of the group, will be repeated with new works added this coming weekend in Courthouse Circle, Stroudsburg. Most of the paintings in the show are for sale at moderate prices. Money received by Miller for his portrait work at the show was donated to the YMCA.

Courthouse circle in Stroudsburg took on the air of a Parisian sidewalk art show over the weekend.

Occasion for this new dress was the first annual showing of paintings made by members of the Pocono Mountains Art Group—an association consisting mostly of amateurs who do their work under the guidance of one or more of this area's professional artists.

With rare exceptions the exhibit seemed to be centered largely on still life—reproductions of flowers and artistically suitable inanimate objects—and landscapes.

Among these latter scenes the artists seemed to be following some rather well-known advice on artistic endeavor in general: "Paint (or write) what you see (or know)."

There were, for example, two Pocono landscapes by Olivia Dreher and several by Carla Holmgren, all representing well-known spots in this vicinity.

Mrs. Holmgren's entries were, perhaps, more varied than most of the others. Side by side, leaning against the wall of the county school superintendent's office, Mrs. Holmgren had placed three distinctly different kinds of painting.

The first of these, an example of "pure" realism, was a reproduction of the Lackawanna railway station in East Stroudsburg. A second painting, also in a realistic vein, but executed with less consciousness, was a "scene near Analomink" showing an old building and a portion of the surrounding landscape.

Each of the two paintings were done in different "styles"—presumably a part of the experimentation which allows an artist to choose the style which suits his creative talents best.

In the third painting, however, Mrs. Holmgren pulled a switch on her two previous efforts and came up with a work which can only be described as "impressionistic"—a term which has been badly misused in the past.

Borrowing momentarily from Salvador Dali, the artist came up with an interesting arrangement of symbols which, when interpreted by the viewer, were capable of telling quite a story. Therein lies one of the major criticisms of such work, of course—what the viewer gets from the painting depends almost entirely upon what he brings to it—and his willingness to be "bothered" with such an interpretive task.

Mrs. Holmgren's impressionistic exercise juxtaposed the following ingredients: (1) a wall in which appeared a rather deep fissure resembling cracks left by age or extreme decay, with a slit near the ground; (2) a broken vase; (3) a ladder, leaning against the wall and (4) the mask of a man's head, resembling King Lear.

If the viewer were willing to take those simple ingredients and build from them his own interpretation of the painting, it is likely he would find in the work something both interesting and artistically stimulating.

Most of the other works needed little "interpretation" for enjoyment. As has been mentioned previously, the show exhibited a preponderance of paintings devoted to the reproduction of grouped flowers, landscapes and still lifes.

Ruth Hinton's paintings of a boy fishing and two boys with cotton candy cones; Mrs. Holmgren's "Barnegat Light"; Alice Sutton's landscapes and still life scenes; P. Maxwell's eubistic painting of a church; and Dorothy Wieding's large oil painting of flowers done entirely in pastels were indicative of the varied influences on the group.

A total of twenty artists were represented in the group exhibit. Among those not already mentioned were Gloria Shaffer, Dr. Herbert Lorenz, H. D. Aument, Mrs. Muller, Glynnie Lennon, E. Knapp, Mrs. Rugh, Edith Brenzini, Martin Mendler, Nancy Kresge and David Miller. G. Francis Meredith and Peter B. Mendler—two local artists who have studied and exhibited professionally—were also represented in the show.

Meredith has studied at the Chicago Art Institute and the Philadelphia Industrial School of Art and is teacher of the adult art education classes in East Stroudsburg.

Mendler has attended the Art Students' League and is a well-known artist in this area.

All of the paintings which were exhibited Friday and Saturday were marked for sale at reasonable prices. Public interest in the exhibit seemed to be on the upswing Saturday night.

The show will again be on exhibit in the courthouse circle Friday and Saturday, Aug. 29 and 30, it was announced last night.

Dr. Dening's office will be closed August 23rd to September 3rd. Adv.

DV Shepherd Dog Club To Hold Show

The newly-formed Allentown group of the Delaware Valley German Shepherd Dog Club will hold its first official match "for breed only", Sept. 20 at Moravian College Athletic Field, Bethlehem. Officially sanctioned by the American Kennel Club, the match is open to all residents in the Allentown area (including Monroe county) who are owners of shepherd dogs.

Judge for the event will be Fanny McIlvain, Philadelphia. Prizes and awards will be given to winners in various divisions.

Interested residents may obtain a premium list by writing to Mrs. William C. Roberts, Stony Hill, RDI, Perkasie, Pa.

Entries will be taken from 12 noon and judging will begin promptly at 1:30 p.m. on the day of the match.

An entry fee of fifty cents will be charged for each class. Adult admission price will also be fifty cents, according to Mrs. Germaine Hanne, Stroudsburg RDI, publicity chairman for the show.
